

Everything around us is made from natural resources. Some things are easily replaced, while others are not. Think about the food you have eaten or the energy it took to zoom to school on the bus. What natural resources have you used today, and are they easy to replace? Step through the latest book in the Compare and Contrast Book series to learn about the world's resources, how long they take to reproduce, and how technology and ingenuity are helping to relieve the strain on some of our most precious reserves.

ABOUT ARBORDALE'S EDITORIAL BOOKS

Arbordale creates science and math-themed picture books that engage readers to think about the world around them. Readers are immersed in learning as they explore creative language, interactive questions, and bright photography. Whether reading for pleasure or in a classroom, Arbordale books are designed to be fascinating for inquiring children.

The Compare and Contrast Book series asks young readers to think a bit differently about the world around them. Simple statements and questions are paired with vibrant photographs to uncover some popular misconceptions about nature or relay intriguing facts.

In addition to Renewable or Nonrenewable Resources, Natural or Man-made?, Penguins, and Otters: River or Sea? make their way to bookshelves on September 10th.
